President's Message: "Reflections"

This year our club, The Silk City Striders, celebrated 30 years as a running, fitness and social club. We mostly are a running club running as individuals and sometimes in the team format, but over the years we have incorporated many activities other than running events; these include picnics, house gatherings, holiday celebrations, skiing, cycling and hiking. We have evolved from an initial focus on running and running prowess, to a diverse group of athletes with wide and varied interests in the sporting arena & beyond. This stands to reason since we are a group from various backgrounds, families and experiences. The main event for celebrating our 30th year occurred on September 26th when members ran anywhere from 3 to 30 miles, while others cycled 30 miles prior to gathering together at Wickham Park for an afternoon of good food and conversation. What occurred on this day of celebration is what our club is about.

You may have heard the expressions "the more things change the more they stay the same," and "what goes around comes around." Over 30 years, our club has sponsored, volunteered and participated in many events. These events are numerous, especially those that we have participated in as runners. Our initial motivation was spawned by everyone's interest in the historic Manchester Road Race; and this event remains as one of our mainstays. However, there are several other events that have become part of our persona. These include The Lake Winnepesaukee Relay, The Hartford Marathon, and Bobby's Run among others. In the past we have conducted and participated in several now defunct events such as the Silk City Triathlon and the Cape Cod Relay from Plymouth to Provincetown. This evolution and change has also occurred in our leadership team as well. More weathered members have participated numerous times in each of the mentioned events and quite a few have participated on our leadership team. Several members have participated in positions of club leadership more than once and these are to be commended.

What are the club positions of leadership? They begin with the club officers: president, VP, secretary and treasurer. And in no special order, they include significant others such as board members, race coordinators, event coordinators, newsletter editor, web master, team captains, uniform quartermaster, etc. To those members who have volunteered their services in these positions, I want to thank you as the club president and as a club member.

Because our club has been well established, it has its own momentum and agenda; it should be noted that this agenda incorporates change as required. However, with respect to the officers, term limits are generally considered to be two years and I for one have met this commitment. Therefore, I am looking for a few good women and men to carry on the tradition of The Silk City Striders. If you have an interest, please let me know; otherwise, I will contact you in the role of a recruiter. I hope I will be able to capture your enthusiasm for our club with a "Yes" to serve. We still need you, even if our club does have its own momentum.

Remember to mark the New Year's Champaign Run on your calendar, which this year is scheduled at Art and Peggy Byram's house in Glastonbury. Finally, I want to thank everyone who has served and participated as a Silk City Strider this year; and I want to wish each of you a Merry Christmas in the Christmas spirit! - Hillman

Winners in this race are those runners who come closest to their predicted time. It was a chilly windy day for the race, but 5 of the 74 runners finished within 10 seconds of their predicted time. It was nice to be back indoors at Bennet Academy with the Manchester Road Race Sports & Fitness Expo.

MY FIRST (& LAST) HARTFORD MARATHON

By Mark Noujaim

Despite the blue skies and almost perfect temperature, this was the most difficult challenge I've ever attempted. I'm speaking of course, about The Hartford Marathon held on October 11, 2008.

I'd been training since May, when an eight-mile run used to keep me off my feet for the rest of the day. Every two weeks, with the training and support of my uncle Andre, we would lengthen the run by two miles and soon enough we were in the teens.

As the sizzling days of August approached, I found myself starting runs earlier and earlier just to get a head start before the sun rose.

Before I knew it, I was standing in the crowd with my bib on and my trusty sneakers tied tight. The anticipation filled my body with adrenaline and as soon as we all clapped and cheered at the end of The National Anthem, I was ready.

Off we go! Cheering spectators waving American flags lined the streets gave me an extra bounce in my step.

6 miles. I was feeling great!

10 miles. My parents and friends saw me from the sidelines and cheered me on.

13 miles. Still feeling very strong at a comfortable pace. Time for a Gu.

16 miles. BAM. I had to stop. My vision got blurry; I was dazed and confused. I had hit what runners call "The Wall." It was as if someone handed me a grand piano and said "Go on, finish the race."

It was inexplicable; I had trained up to 21 miles on a much hotter day than this. I was hydrated and carbed up. But that was the past; I had to think in the now, because I was 16 miles into a race to which I had devoted months of training.

"Failure was not an option." This was the mantra I kept repeating to myself.

18 miles. The 4:45 pace-keepers caught up to me and I stayed with them while I made small talk with fellow runners to keep from thinking of the pain.

21 miles. My right calf locked up. I sat down for a minute and massaged it.

23 miles. The miles were endless. I only wanted two things in life at that moment; to finish the race, and a turkey sandwich.

26 miles. I could see the Hartford Arch.

The Finish Line. As the medal was placed around my neck, the Rocky theme song started playing in my head. I felt like a runner.

My parents and friends were looking for me at the finish line. They asked Andre where I was. "Wherever there's food, you'll find Mark."

Sure enough, they found me sitting near the food tent with a pile of food on my plate.

"Do you want run Philadelphia next month?" asked Andre.

"Never! Not in a million years will I ever do that again!" I laughed.

...Or maybe I will.

Nutrition News: Are You At Risk for Vitamin D Deficiency?

Katie Jeffrey-Lunn, MS, RD, CD-N

First published in The Stonington Times and The Mystic Times, June 2008

Vitamin D is a unique vitamin. It is a hormone that is active in all cells in the body. Because Vitamin D combined with calcium is essential for bone health, a deficiency in either calcium or vitamin D can lead to osteoporosis and associated bone fractures. Vitamin D also influences cell growth and specialization, affects how the body produces bone, muscle and insulin, and affects how the immune system fights disease. Individuals with low levels of vitamin D have a weakened immune system and are at greater risk of developing autoimmune diseases such as Type I diabetes mellitus. Adequate levels of vitamin D also decrease the risk of developing muscle weakness, gum disease, arthritis, multiple sclerosis, and more than a dozen types of internal cancers such as breast, colon, pancreas, and prostate. The health benefits of vitamin D are well-documented and the list continues to grow.

If you could reduce your likelihood of developing a medical condition, you would, wouldn't you? Yet, many Americans do not receive adequate amounts of this "sunshine" vitamin. The body can produce vitamin D if exposed to the sun's UV rays (unless protected by sunscreen) for approximately 5 - 15 minutes or longer depending on skin pigment. The darker the skin color, the longer the exposure required.

Experts recommend that individuals (1 year to adults) receive 1,000 IU (international units) of vitamin D daily from food, sunlight and supplements. 2,000 IU is the upper limit currently listed by the Food and Nutrition Board. If you take a multivitamin and/or calcium supplement, determine how much vitamin D each provides, then determine how much you generally receive from milk and other foods. Take a vitamin D supplement (look for "vitamin D3" or "cholecalciferol") to reach the 1,000 IU goal, if necessary. However, if you practice sensible sun exposure during the months your body is able to make vitamin D (3 - 4 times per week: 15 minutes of sun exposure from March through October on uncovered arms and legs without sunscreen), you can stop taking vitamin D supplements during those months of the year. Always keep your face covered with sunscreen during sun exposure!

Several reasons may be contributing to the widespread vitamin D inadequacy and deficiency. First, vitamin D naturally occurs in relatively few foods (e.g. 4 oz. fatty fish: catfish, sockeye salmon = 480 IU; 4 oz. pink salmon. = 290 IU and 3 oz. cooked shrimp = 170 IU). Relatively small amounts can also be found in foods fortified with vitamin D such as milk and soy milk (8 oz. = 100 IU), most breakfast cereals (3/4 - 1 cup = 40 IU) and certain yogurts (6 oz. = 80 IU). Secondly, due to the widespread use of sunscreen to protect the skin from sun burns and skin cancer, individuals are not able to produce vitamin D from sun exposure. To compound the sunscreen issue, individuals living north of the latitude line connecting San Francisco to Philadelphia cannot produce vitamin D from November to February. And, unless it's warm enough outside, few individuals receive the 10 minutes of sunlight on uncovered arms and legs without sunscreen at least 3 - 4 times per week in October, March and April. Thirdly, most Americans lack sunlight exposure due to working indoors. How then can you be certain that you're receiving enough vitamin D?

Individuals can request to have their blood levels of vitamin D checked. The goal is to maintain 40-65 ng/mL of vitamin D in blood year-round. Some individuals may need to take more than 1,000 IU of vitamin D daily to maintain these levels. Although vitamin D toxicity is difficult to achieve (a fair skinned person in a bathing suit exposed to sunlight with no sunscreen for 30 minutes can produce 20,000 to 30,000 IU of vitamin D), it is inadvisable to take more than 2,000 IU per day unless under the care of a knowledgeable physician. As you age, the body's ability to produce vitamin D decreases.

The research is mounting on the myriad health benefits of receiving adequate vitamin D from a reduction in cancer, to a decreased risk of developing Type I and Type II diabetes mellitus, to a decreased likelihood of developing autoimmune diseases. The health implications of receiving enough vitamin D to maintain adequate blood levels are enormous. The bottom line: strive to receive 1,000 IU of vitamin D daily from sunlight, food and/or supplements for optimal health.

Mexican Salmon Stir-fry

Created by: Katie Jeffrey-Lunn, MS, RD, 2008

Salmon is an excellent source of vitamin D (sockeye salmon = 480 IU; 4 oz. pink salmon. = 290 IU) and along with avocado supplies anti-inflammatory fat, which is great for runners! The garlic and onion provide phytonutrients. Phytonutrients are substances that plants produce naturally which protect the plant against insects, viruses, bacteria, fungi, draught, and the sun. They have been found to have numerous health benefits. Tomatoes are full of antioxidants.

Serves 4

2 limes (approximately ¼ cup of juice)	6 cloves garlic, minced
¼ cup of water	1 pound salmon fillet, preferably wild
¼ cup chopped cilantro plus extra for garnish	Pepper to taste
2 tablespoon chopped parsley	2 avocados, peeled, pit removed, and sliced
2 large tomatoes, chopped w/seeds removed	Low-fat sour cream
2 tsp. olive oil	Corn tortilla shells
1 cup finely chopped red onion

1. Squeeze limes and collect the juice in a bowl. Add water, cilantro and parsley and set aside.
2. Chop the tomatoes (removing the seeds) and set aside. Chop the red onion.
3. Remove any fine bones from the salmon fillet. Cut the salmon into 1/2-inch cubes.
4. Heat olive oil in a skillet over medium heat. Add red onion and cook until tender. Approximately 5 minutes.
5. Add minced garlic and sauté for an additional 2 minutes.
6. Add salmon to oil, onion and garlic mixture and sauté until pink and tender.
7. Pour the lime mixture into the skillet. Stir in pepper to taste.
8. Add tomatoes and simmer for 10 minutes.
9. While mixture is simmering, peel, remove pit and slice avocado.
10. Remove salmon mixture from heat.
11. Serve in warmed corn tortilla shells.
12. Garnish with avocado slices, sour cream and cilantro.

Silk City Striders' New Member Profiles

BRENDAN CALLAHAN

Editor's Note: It's not often that we get a new individual club member who needs a parent's signature to sign up. Brendan is off to a great start, and we see a bright future ahead for him.

Brendan Reports: I was born and raised in the small town of Bolton and I am 13 years old. I am currently in 8th grade. I play soccer for Oakwood and began running to condition for it and fell in love. I recently started running competitively for my school's cross country team, but have been running for about four years.

My main goals in running for this year were to come in first for my Age Group at the Manchester Road Race, and to beat the Division Record. I came in first this year, but unfortunately I missed the record by seven seconds. There's always next year.

Other goals that I have set for myself as a future runner are to be an All-State Cross Country runner, win as many meets and invitationals as I can, attempt to break the 14-18 Manchester Road Race division record, and take things from there.

PETER DEVINE

Editor's Note: Another runner who started his running career at the Manchester Road Race. Peter started running with us on Tuesday nights, and we expect to see him on Saturdays as well, and at many more road races in 2009.

Peter Reports: I'm a 38 years young Entrepreneur. I own and operate a Disc Jockey Service and I'm a distributor of natural health products here in New England. I also was very competitive in Flag Football that I played for about 9 years which consisted of a lot of speed bursts that I loved.

Last year I decided to direct my attention to long distant running. So I decided to run the 2007 Manchester Road Race (Boy that was fun!!). Then a few months later in April 2008 I ran the Bradley Road Race and placed 3rd in my age group.

I found Silk City Runners online while browsing through the Manchester Road Race web site. I love the friendliness and the excitement everyone brings to running. My goals are to start running 10K's and working my way up to Marathons in 2009.
